

The Open
University

40 Years On: The Domain of Design History – Looking Back Looking Forward

22 May 2015
The Open University
Milton Keynes

2015 marks forty years since The Open University launched its pioneering course A305 History of architecture and design 1890-1939 in 1975. The course has been widely acknowledged as a landmark in the study of modern architecture and design both in the UK and internationally. This conference will take A305 as its starting point to trace some central themes in the history of the discipline in this country from the 1970s onwards. For the full programme and details of how to register please visit our website:

<http://www.open.ac.uk/arts/design-history-conference/>

DHS Student Bursaries – Apply Now

Bursaries cover the cost of registration and up to £25 of travel expenses. Please visit www.open.ac.uk/arts/design-history-conference/registration for further details and how to apply. Deadline for Bursary Applications: Thursday 17th APRIL 2015